“Photographing Rock Art: Making It Accurate and Esthetically Pleasing”

Professional photographer Jim Respass will begin his presentation with an Introduction to basic camera controls for optimizing photo capture, including point-and-shoot cameras as well as single-lens reflex and other professional cameras. In Photographing in the Field Jim will discuss various pieces of ancillary equipment, including special lighting, tripods, filters, lenses, and specialized cameras, followed by a discussion of how specific subjects can be captured to show rock art in its environment as well as for official recording. The presentation will conclude with Processing the Images using basic and advanced software to demonstrate a number of enhancements that can be applied to the original photograph. Join us on April 3 for an interesting and informative evening with Jim Respass.
